“Ne’er cast a clout ‘till May is out”

How many bits of ‘folk lore’ did you learn from your granny? Can you send in something you learnt for the next edition – please.

This particular saying does not relate to the month, but to the flowering of the Hawthorn blossom. The flowers of the Hawthorn are usually referred to as May, simply because it flowers in May.

Congratulations

To Iris and Peter Skilton on their 50th Wedding Anniversary they should have been cruising.

“We enjoyed our leisurely day yesterday as best we could, despite being at home rather than on our cruise! We had a Zoom session with all the family for an hour, went for a four mile walk and of course consumed a glass of fizz at various times during the day, including a toast with all the family.”

Did you spot the deliberate mistake?

1. monthly instead of weekly in the first paragraph
2. Take care, not Take Car
